MOTHER AND SISTERS DIE FROM STARVATION

Were Russian Prisoners of War in Siberia—Son
Lives Here.

Louis Gundt, residing at 214 E. Eighth st., received a letter Thursday from Europe announcing the death of his mother, two sisters and nephew. The letter is dated Nov. 26 last and sent from Siberia by his sister, Miss Amelia Gundt, who is a prisoner of war.

The communication is of a sad nature. It tells of the hardships endured by a number of those who were taken prisoners in East Prussia by the Russian soldiers. Mrs. Eva Gundt, his mother; Miss Martha Gundt and Mrs. Emma Dorchenburg, sisters, and the latter's son, Sigismund, three years old, died while prisoners in the Siberian war camps. The letter states that their deaths were brought about from starvation. The mother died Sept. 6, the boy Sept. 17, Martha Oct. 5, and Mrs. Dorchenburg Oct. 21. The only remaining members of the family are two sisters and one brother, prisoners of war, and the brother who lives in Mishawaka.

The family resided in Gardener, 40 miles from Gumbine, East Prussia, which is only a distance of 25 miles from the Russian line. The Russian army ransacked the town, killing all the inhabitants they could lay their hands on, while those who fled were captured and made prisoners, this family being among the latter. Mrs. Dorchenburg's husband who lives in South Bend, has also been notified of the death of his wife and son.

What makes the circumstances of a still more pathetic nature for the Mishawaka man is that his father and brother-in-law were killed early in the war.

The writer of the letter states that it is impossible to send any address, not knowing what would be their fate.
